Dear Mrs. Curtis:

Thank you for your letter of 2 October 1973 inquiring about the availability of Central Intelligence Agency maps and charts through a depository program.

Maps produced by this Agency are normally not available for public distribution. As a consequence, there are no depositories designated for this material outside the U. S. Government. Some CIA maps are periodically reissued by the Government Printing Office (GPO), and you will receive these maps automatically if your library has been designated a Government Documents Depository.

Sincerely,

STATINTL

Deputy Director
